A Word from Sharon

Wishing you all a very Happy
Christmas.

Just a short message to say thank you for all the work, training, mentoring that you have all been involved with this year.

The year has seen its challenges for you but as always you as a sector have risen to those challenges. I have had the good fortune to work very closely with many of you this year and the level of commitment to the children in your care is amazing, evidence of wonderful practice was obvious throughout your settings.

As we move into 2017, we will see changes to the way the government is planning to support families and children in their very precious early years, the introduction of the single affordable childcare programme we hope will support a greater number of families and while it is not a fix within the sector, it is one foot forward.

Also the introduction of non-contact hours is the start of acknowledging the role of the practitioner.

In January 2017 Sligo County Childcare Committee will be the local delivery agent for the 15 hour Equality Diversity & Inclusion programme which will be delivered to Early Years Practitioners. We will have a schedule of training throughout the year commencing in January. It is important that 2 practitioners from each ECCE setting complete the training as embedding equality & diversity practice is key to providing quality early years experiences for children. This training will also support a whole team approach as part of the Access and Inclusion Model (AIM) for ECCE services.

On behalf of Sligo County Childcare Committee board and staff I would like to wish you all a very happy safe and peaceful Christmas and we look forward to working with you in 2017.

Congratulations to the service Managers in County Sligo who graduated with their level 8 ECCE from IT Sligo on the 5th November.

Child Protection Training

*Now why would I want to do
Child Protection Training?
Nothing like that could ever happen in my service*

SOME KEY FACTS

The National Audit of Neglect cases found that parental alcohol misuse was a factor in 62% of neglect cases and that domestic violence featured in almost two-thirds of the sample cases 15,383 people under 15 years were discharged following an admission to hospital for injury, poisoning or other external cause.

1% or less of mothers used smacking 'regularly' or 'always' to discipline their children. Only about half said they 'never' smacked their children (2009, 2013)

In both 2012 and 2013, there were over 40,000 referrals to child welfare and protection services in Ireland.

As a professional within our organisations whose work brings us into contact with children on a daily basis, we all have a responsibility to be aware of the signs, symptoms and risk factors which increase the possibility of neglect and abuse. We also need to know who to share these concerns with and who we can seek advice from, how to make a formal report and share Information.

Children First Foundation Training is essential for everyone working in the Early Years sector and this training is provided throughout the year by Sligo County Childcare Committee. A total of 45 services and 105 staff undertook Child Protection Training in Sligo in 2016. This reinforces a clear understanding that child protection must be at the core of any organisation working with children, what needs to be done protect children, how to do it and the key people within their organisation to do this. The outcome of this knowledge and understanding will result in greater protection for children.

Children First Refresher Training

For those who undertook Children First Foundation training 3 years ago, we are now in a position to provide Refresher training and details of the dates will be included in our Training Calendar which will go out to services over the coming weeks.

Child Protection Policy Development

A key element of effective Child Protection, is the development and Implementation of a robust Child Protection and Welfare Policy. To support the development of your Child Protection Policy, we facilitate workshops to assist our services to do so and ensure compliance during Tusla inspection. We will continue to run these in 2017 and encourage any service that has not had a senior member of staff attend the training to put this in your diary for 2017. Dates will be included in the Training Calendar which will issue during the first week of January.

A wide range of information is available on the Tusla website to guide organisations, parents, young people and the general public. This can be found at <http://www.tusla.ie/services/child-protection-welfare/children-first/>

Children First

Children First: National Guidance for the Protection and Welfare of Children [2011] provides the national guidance for the protection and welfare of children in Ireland.

The guidance is a roadmap to help parents, professionals, organisations and the general public to identify and report child abuse and welfare concerns.

Society has a duty of care towards children and everyone should be alert to the possibility that children with whom they are in contact may be being abused or be at risk of abuse. Aistear

SCCC have had another busy year during 2016, delivering Aistear Stage One and Stage Two Programmes by the Quality Development Team.

The programme was run over four sessions with a different Aistear theme being covered each session in addition to links being made specifically to different areas of quality practice.

Everyone who participated in the training programme were also able to contribute on aspects of their own practice which added to the rich learning experience for all participants.

In completing the training programme participants gave feedback on different changes in their approaches and practice which included:

'Documenting has become a more valuable tool to help us further develop our service. The children always benefit when the practitioners are fully equipped with knowledge.'

'Expanding on play - allowing children to lead more'

'I try to spend more time outside which makes a huge difference in my group, I added more items for example tyres and items to the mud kitchen'

SCCC will run a final Aistear Stage Two training programme during the early part of 2017, details of which will be available in the SCCC Training Calendar from January 2017 or email viola@sligochildcare.ie

The Managers Network recently hosted an information session with the local Meitheal team. This was a very informative session which gave great insight into the service and what it has to offer for children and families. See details of the service below:

Meitheal is a national practice model led by TUSLA. It enables the needs and strengths of children and their families to be properly identified and understood. This way of working will ensure that the proper supports and services are made available to children and families when they are required.

The model brings local services together to help improve well-being for children and their families. Parents are central to the Meitheal process, all work is guided by parents at every stage and children are also encouraged to play a central role in Meitheal process.

Sligo has a local Meitheal team, for more information contact meitheal@sligosocialservices.ie or phone 071 91 45682. Further information and relevant forms can also be found online at: <http://www.tusla.ie/services/family-community-support/guidance-documents/>
